Word dictate fur mac

On Macs, the sound dictate is built-in, allowing you to speak instead of genre. This feature works more similarly to voice dictating in the mobile operating system and the more complex Speech Recognition feature available in Windows. OS X Mavericks includes an Advanced Dictate feature. It allows you to use Voice Dictate offline and display text as you speak, so you can see exactly how your conversation is interpreted. First set Advanced Dictate, you need to enable dictate. Click the Apple menu at the top of your screen and choose System Preferences. In the System Preferences pane, click the Dictate and Speech icon, and make sure Dictate is set to On. Enable the Advanced Dictate option and your Mac will download the appropriate dictionary from Apple servers. It can then interpret your voice offline. If you don't enable Advanced Dictate, your conversation will be sent to Apple's servers as interpreted. You are also free to customize your dictate shortcut and which microphone dictates it from here. If your Mac can hear you, the purple microphone will turn on as you speak. Using Audio Dictate To use audio dictating in an app on your Mac, first select a text field in an app. Then press Fn (Function) twice, or click edit menu and select Start Dictate. Talk to your Mac and the words you speak will start appearing in the text field. If you have set up Advanced Dictate, they are displayed immediately. If you haven't, you'll need to click Done or press fn again, and the audio will be sent to theapple servers, where it'll be interpreted and the text will be filled into your app. If you haven't set up Advanced Dictate, you can talk up to 30 seconds at a time. The purple indicator on the microphone should move as you speak. If not, your Mac won't be able to hear you. You need to reposition your microphone or configure which microphone is used from the Dictate pane. When you're done dictating, tap fn again or click Done to have your Mac stop listening to you. Dictation Commands As with other operating systems, Sound Dictation does not automatically fill in the appropriate punctuation marks when speaking a sentence normally. You should speak the punctuation you want to type. For example, I do well. How are you? You think, I'm doing well, I have to say how you make a question mark in the period. RELATED: Use Voice Dictate to Save Time on Android, iPhone and iPad, a complete list of voice dictate commands you can use, adapted from Apple's help site. Note that if iPhone or iPad does, they are the same voice commands used on Apple's iOS. For example, if you say eight, it appears as 8 or VIII. There's no room, say something, and then say no gaps. For example, if you say good day sir, your words appear as gooddaysir. Say covers, say something, and say covers. The words you speak appear in the Title Example. Sing all the covers, say something, and then tell me all the covers. The words you speak appear in ALL CAPS. It is easy to start using without a long training process and will be familiar to people who have used voice dictates on smartphones and tablets. In fact, Apple's iOS audio dictating feature is extremely similar. The article above may contain links linked to how-to Geek support helper. Mac Word 365 and Outlook 365 have the same powerful 'Speech to Text' option available in The Windows version of Word and Outlook. No compromises or differences are much easier than installation. Dictate is only available to Microsoft 365 subscribers with Office 365 software for Mac, Windows, iPhone, iPad, and Android devices. In this article, we'll look at how Word for Mac dictating in Word 365 (and Outlook 365) and Dictate in Outlook work cloud-based. It is developed regularly and does not depend on the speed of your computer. It is also context-sensitive, using all spoken expressions to work with the correct words (instead of the old method that converts each spoken word individually). Another development is microphones, especially laptops, now get the conversation with better loyalty. Microphone setup Make sure Mac computer and Office can 'hear' you. It is much easier on Mac than in Windows. If you want to use the built-in or default microphone, just click the Dictate button on the Home Screen tab in Word. The first time, a standard security warning is displayed. The Mac prevents apps from using some elements, such as microphones or cameras, until the user specifically approves them. Click OK. The microphone on the laptop or webcam should be sufficient in most cases. Wireless microphones can work. If you are in noisy area, you may need a headset with a microphone near the mouth. You need to 'hear' your voice clearly without distracting from dictation background noise. Go to Apple to select a specific microphone or check whether it works | System Preferences | Audio | Input. Select the microphone or device you want to use. Input volume can be adjusted with slider. As you can see above, check that microphone un put level works with movement when talking that mac users can hear a slight breath of jealousy away with 'VU meter' bars ... This is the millions of Windows users who look at the picture above and wonder why it is not so easy on Windows! As we mentioned earlier, even Microsoft's Skype section does a better audio/video setup job than Windows itself. Setup dictates with default microphone setup and working dictate. On the Home tab. Pull down the list and select your spoken language. 'Preview' languages are not fully developed, but should work quite well. This selection is separate and is available in French (Canada)French (French)German (United Kingdom)English (United States)French (Netherlands)English (Australia)English (United Kingdom)English (United States) German (Italian)Japanese (Bokmål)Portuguese (Bokmål)Portuguese (Brazilian)Spanish (Mexican)Spanish (Spanish)Swedish (Sweden)Some of these languages are currently labeled 'Preview'. The list may change at any time when developing Microsoft Dictation. Dictate language selection in August 2020. Is language selection important for dialects? Probably, although Peter's Australian accent also worked with the English U.S., UK, Canada or Australian setting. If your English dialect isn't listed, try something close. New Zealand and our South African friends can try English (Australia) ... <g>even if it seems un-patriotic. We are interested in hearing french speakers experience with French (France) and French (Canada). Or Spanish speakers with variants of Spain or Mexico. Can people from Portugal use the Portuguese (Brazil) option effectively? No matter what you say now, it will be heard and converted into text. Punctuation Dictation has automatic punctuation where the following words Add. Period or Full StopCommaSoru signExclamation point or Exclamation pointNexed line or new paragraphSemicolonColonHyphenOpen quote or Open quotation or Close </g> </g> there are more spoken punctuation and symbols – see the full Dictation punctuation marker list. Privacy Microsoft now troubleshoots privacy issues with this statement. This service does not store your audio data or transcriptional text. Your conversations are sent to Microsoft and used only to provide you with text results. That's a good thing. Laws in several countries, including the United States, mean that Microsoft is required to monitor and deliver data from any customer. This could be without the customer or even a court order. Troubleshooting The most common problem with dictating is microphone setup. Click the Dictate button, start speaking, but no typing appears. This happens much less on the Mac because the operating system and hardware are better integrated. Word does not have control to select dictate or Outlook microphones. Use System Preferences | Audio to select and control the microphone. Dictate voice commands – full list Return to text in Word 365 for Windows Thanks for joining us!
